

Is Your Daughter Going To College?

GIRLS' colleges are peculiar. You may think a girl is all ready to enter any of them, but the chances are that she isn't. Four hard years in high school does not always prepare for college entrance. And think of this: No girls' college, except a "co-ed" institution, teaches the one thing which every girl should know. Look at the story on page 310 of Pearson's Magazine now on sale. That explains the requirements of the principal colleges. It may make college entrance easier for the girl, and save you some worry. This college question is not merely a question of choice.

A game that is being practiced universally by doctors which costs you money, and sometimes life, is explained in the same magazine; the facts are given by doctors themselves; it is a sensational story, but it's true, and highly important to you. The beautiful romance of Napoleon and Eugenie is told in a way that will tingle the soul of every man and woman who has a soul. Edgar Jepson, who wrote the famous Pollyanna stories, has a new story of the "Determined Twins," who are even more delightful than Pollyanna. Do you know what that means? And for other fiction, all of the kind which will make you glad you read it, there are

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Caldwell held Washington to five scattered hits today and shut them out. Groom was hit for two triples and a double in the second inning and Becker, who succeeded him, was found in the fourth and fifth innings for four runs. Walter was put out of the game in the fourth for protesting a decision.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Four times the great Lajoie stood before the great Walsh and three times the great Lajoie struck out; but that was not enough. There was the team play and hitting at crucial moments and Cleveland won. And besides it all, there was Chouinard, who stood calmly in front of second base while Olson played the old "hidden ball stunt" and was touched out. It was the feature of an otherwise featureless game. Score: R H E
